Sample Write-Up for Career-Related Accomplishments

The following are examples of how information for the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award could be written. This format should be utilized for each position listed.

From 1997 to 2010, as chief financial officer of Widgets Inc., John Eagle Scout's duties currently include the management of 5,200 employees under 15 divisions. In 2009, the company made record profits that exceeded $2.5 billion. During his tenure as chief financial officer, Widget Inc.'s annual gross sales have increased from $12 billion to $37 billion. He has been instrumental in implementing new procedures that helped the company maintain its high standard of quality products and reduce expenditures across the board, saving the company tens of millions of dollars.

Additional Information. List awards, honors, books or articles written, or other information pertinent to the nominee's accomplishments as related to his chosen field.

Requirement 3: Through the years, it has been established that a nominee should also have a strong record of voluntary service to his community. This is in addition to his achievement of a distinguished career, not in place of one. Service to Scouting is not required.

Care must be taken in listing service that is truly meaningful. Membership in an organization in and of itself is not meaningful. Committee or board membership might not be meaningful unless the individual makes a major impact on the success of a project or program. Service as the leader of a successful campaign is more meaningful than a large financial contribution. Service as a Scoutmaster is as significant as service as a council president.

List organizations, offices held, specific achievements, and dates.

Sample Write-Up for Community Service

This format should be utilized for each community service item listed.

From 2001 to present: Free Food for Jobless People

Offices held: Board member; Distribution Task Force chair (2002 to 2004); Procurement Task Force chair (2005 to 2008)

As a board member of Free Food for Jobless People, John Eagle Scout has been instrumental in broadening the organization's base of donors to include fast food and grocery store chains, as well as fine-tuning its distribution process. His involvement has allowed Free Food for Jobless People to expand its outreach not only within Fort Worth city limits but to now include all of Tarrant County.

Additional information: List awards, honors, books/articles written, or other information pertinent to the nominee's accomplishments in his community service.

NOMINATION MATERIALS

Supporting documentation should be submitted for review with the signed application. There is no minimum number of pages required for review; however, a substantial percentage of nominations are declined due to insufficient supporting materials. You should put forth your best effort in presenting the nominee's complete qualifications for the award.

The volunteers of the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award Selection Task Force make the decision, and that decision is final.

In order to render a fair decision, it is necessary that the DESA Selection Task Force receives detailed information documenting the candidate's achievements in his field and volunteer service to his community. The descriptions of the nominee's achievements should be specific. Explain clearly the relative significance of awards and honors received by the nominee. Letters of endorsement should contain facts about the nominee's accomplishments and recognitions. Information submitted with the nomination form should clearly demonstrate how the candidate has "distinguished" himself among other colleagues in his field.

The NESA office is available for consultation in preparing the nomination.

SUBMISSION PROCEDURES

Nominations for the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award must be made by the council in which the candidate currently resides. Individuals may not submit nominations directly to the national office. Nominations will not be reviewed without the signatures of the Scout executive, council president, and NESA Committee chair. Nomination of a candidate does not ensure approval. Nomination form and supporting documentation should be scanned into one PDF and emailed to noesa@scouting.org.

Upon receipt of the nomination form, the National Eagle Scout Association office will review the contents to ensure that the nomination is as strong as possible. If additional information is necessary, the NESA office will contact the council with recommended additions to the nomination materials. Following acceptance of the nomination by the NESA director, the nomination will be presented to the DESA Selection Task Force.

If a nomination is denied by the task force, the nominating council may resubmit the candidate for consideration after one calendar year has passed from the date of the original submission or consider nominating this individual for the NESA Outstanding Eagle Scout Award beginning the following year.

HISTORY OF THE DISTINGUISHED EAGLE SCOUT AWARD

Since its establishment in 1969, the Distinguished Eagle Scout Award has gained prominent standing among Scouting recognitions. Those previously awarded the gold Eagle pendant include President Gerald R. Ford, several governors and senators, military flag officers, university presidents, chief executive officers of Fortune 500 companies, and nationally known lawyers, educators, and doctors. Each of the recipients had risen to a state of national prominence and distinction in his field prior to receiving the DESA.

DEFINING WHO IS “DISTINGUISHED”

DESA recipients are typically recognized by their colleagues as the best in their field. As evidence of distinction, these men are nationally known and have an impressive record of peer recognition. The DESA Selection Task Force will determine whether the candidate is worthy of the DESA based on the documentation provided. As such, it is the council's responsibility to honor the candidate's life work by sufficiently and thoroughly documenting his qualifications.

DESA PRESENTATION GUIDELINES

This is a national award presented by a local council. The presentation should be made at a meeting or dinner with the recipient's peers at hand. The ceremony should be dignified and the focus of the event, not tied to another program such as a Silver Beaver dinner. It may be presented as part of a fund-raising activity.

Nomination does not ensure approval. Do not set a presentation date until the NESA director notifies the council of the Task Force's decision. Once approved, the council should use the DESA order form (found at www.nesa.org) to order the appropriate recognition items. If a plaque is ordered, the council committee must submit the DESA citation form (found on www.nesa.org) with the approved wording as it will appear on the plaque. Preparation time on the plaque may take up to three months, which will provide adequate time for the council to plan an appropriate presentation ceremony.

A detailed list of presentation guidelines can be found at www.nesa.org

WRITING THE CITATION

Because the council committee is closer to the recipient and knows which accomplishments he would prefer to list on the citation, it is the council's responsibility to write the wording as it should appear on the DESA plaque.

A citation template can be filled out online at www.nesa.org. Due to limited space on the presentation plaque, a maximum character count of approximately 400 words has been built into the template.
